How our Tofu is made

Cleveland Tofu is made by soaking, grinding, and cooking soybeans into a soymilk. After the soymilk coagulates, it is pressed into large blocks. The tofu is then cut by hand into 3lb blocks and vacuum packed (1lb retail blocks available in plastic containers). Our hand-crafted, artisan recipe has remained the same since 1976. Cleveland Tofu's unique recipe and texture will continue to make it the finest tofu available.

Ingredients

Cleveland Tofu consists of only four ingredients: Water, Soybeans, Calcium Sulfate, and Nigari. Our soybeans are non-GMO, certified organic and conventional and are sourced from Ohio farmers. Our growers are always rated one of the top three suppliers in the world and adhere to the most rigorous industry standards for quality and purity.

Care and Preparation

Fresh tofu is always better. Cleveland Tofu is made fresh daily. Refrigerate at 34° to 38° to extend shelf life. Drain and rinse unused tofu; place in a food-safe container with fresh water. Drain and rinse daily. Cleveland Tofu may be frozen by draining water and sealing in a freezer bag. Cleveland Tofu is pre-cooked and edible on delivery. Steam, bake, fry, or marinade and add to your favorite recipe.
